

FACT SHEET

Temporary Accommodation

An owner of a property for which development consent for a dwelling has been granted may apply to Council to occupy a shed, caravan or other structure prior to the dwelling being completed. Approval will only be granted on the following basis:

1. The period of occupation is two (2) years or less;
2. A shower, basin, toilet and temporary kitchen sink connected to either sewerage or an approved on-site effluent disposal system is to be installed on the site (Note that prior approval is required to install sanitary facilities in a shed);
3. Town water is connected or an adequate tank water supply is available;
4. A working smoke detector is installed in the shed/caravan.
5. Construction of the dwelling must be substantially commenced; and
6. If located in a bush fire prone area, adequate measures are to be in place for safe evacuation in case of bushfire and any required asset protection zones are established.
7. Adequate construction progress as assessed by a Council Building Surveyor is maintained during the period of occupation.

Council will not grant approval for the occupation of any shed, caravan or other structure on any property on which development consent for a dwelling has not been granted, nor on any property where construction of the dwelling has not substantially commenced (i.e. pouring of footings or slab).

Within thirty (30) days of occupation of the completed dwelling, any temporary kitchen and laundry facilities are to be totally removed from the shed/building and plumbing and drainage pipes capped off/removed/concreted. Council will only permit a toilet, shower and hand basin to remain in a shed after it has been de-commissioned.

For rural properties, should it be likely that a dwelling will not be completed within a period of two (2) years, owners may consider submitting a development application for a small or transportable dwelling initially. This dwelling can then be occupied without any time constraints. A further development application can then be submitted at a later time for a larger dwelling. Upon completion of the larger dwelling, the small dwelling will need to be removed or converted to another approved use, which may include a secondary dwelling. Conversion to another approved use will require the submission and approval of a DA.
